Non-Living Things In The Sea

Where are the non-living things in the sea? Are they part of the ocean or floating debris?

Can you find them down deep on the dark ocean floor? Are they in shallow water or part of the shore?

Water and gases, salt, shells and stones, are non-living things inside all ocean zones.

After a storm take a walk in the sand, see what the waves have washed up on the land.

When you snorkel or swim, what belongs there should stay, but if you see nurdles... please take them away!
